The Sunday next before Advent
Christ the King

Daniel 7. 9-10, 13-14. Revelation 1. 4b-8. John 18. 33-37

Dear Friends,

On the feast of Christ the King, we, as the Church, contemplate the source of her eternal hope. Of the hope that lies at the centre of our faith, for a once and future king whose reign is not fully obvious, even to the eyes of faith, but who nevertheless rules overall. The hope that Christ's reign will become more visible is the substance of the Advent season that this feast introduces. Advent celebrates Christ's second coming and the consummation of all things, not as the end of a process but as a fresh act of grace. By this grace, we are challenged to bear more faithful witness by unmasking the meaningless, inhumanity and contradictions of this world's empires through the speaking of and showing in every moment of our lives, that we are under God's rule as children of His Kingdom. A kingdom that stands strong in a world that ignores Christ. The Christ our King, our saviour, Lord and ruler of all.

You remain in my prayers and I hope you continue to keep safe and well.

The Children's Society

Children's Society: Good Childhood report 2021

Published: 5th November 2021

This Christmas, many parishes will raise money for the Children's Society through their Christingle services. Earlier this year, the charity published its annual Good Childhood Report.

The Children's Society Good Childhood report for 2021 shows that modern life continues to erode the happiness of young people, with increased numbers dissatisfied with school, their friendships and their appearance.

Although children and young people have been incredibly resilient during the pandemic, approximately a quarter of a million did not cope well with the disruption. It has been reported that many are now plagued by new worries about their future, especially in terms of having enough money, finding a job and getting good grades, as well as the climate emergency. Despite this, seven in ten 10-17 year olds are optimistic about the future regardless of the uncertainties reinforced by the pandemic.

The Children's Society runs services and campaigns to improve children's lives, reignite their hope and change the systems that are placing them in danger.

Please pray for all children and young people who are unhappy or struggling with their mental health, as a result of the pandemic or otherwise. Give thanks for all those who raise money for the Children's Society over the Christmas period through Christingles and other services.
